Upcoming Class Information

Producers will be hosting a free, in-person educational class on

Saturday, July 10th @ 11am

Class Information:

Interseeding Alfalfa Into Bermudagrass

Jon Douglas, District Sales Manager, Alforex Seeds (A Corteva Agriscience Company)

Date: Saturday, July 10th @ 11am

Please join us in learning about the benefits of using Alfalfa as a companion crop to Bermudagrass. All Bermudagrass and improved Bermuda hybrids can benefit from this forage pairing, including such popular varieties as Coastal, Jiggs and Tifton. Interseeding Alfalfa is a great way to boost the relative quality, prolong the growing season, increase cattle gains and grow your own nitrogen.

Topics Include:

- Nitrogen Management
- Variety Selection
- Planting
- Pest Control
- Harvesting & Utilization

Location: Producers Cooperative Association, Bryan TX

In the conference room, next to the feed dock.

Stay tuned for more class information to come!

Treating Internal Parasites

Strategically treating internal parasites is an important financial and management consideration for livestock producers. These parasites cause reductions in milk production, calf weaning weights or growth rates and even mortality. Heavy worm burdens are more likely to occur in intensive grazing and high stocking density situations. The opportunity for worm transmission is ideal during wet circumstances. With the higher levels of rainfall that the Brazos Valley has received over the past few months, worms are a concern to local farmers and ranchers.

Producers offers a variety of methods to treat internal parasites, including pour-on dewormers, injectable dewormers, drenches, pastes, cubes & blocks.

For assistance in planning your deworming program, call Producers. 979-778-6000.
